*A foreign travel document, submitted by the foreign citizen, must not:

- be dubious in terms of authenticity or ownership,
- contain marks, entries, erasures and corrections that are not certified by the competent authorities of the respective foreign state. There must be no torn pages either.

4) visa support documents (see details below).

For citizens of migration-secure states, a simplified visa procedure is provided, which does not require visa support documents confirming the purpose and conditions of travel, when applying for business or private visas for the period of up to 30 days.

5) additional documents required for issuance of an entry visa (at the request of a consular officer);

6) a confirmation of the consular fee paid.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs do not provide any assistance in reviewing and delivering abroad of visa support documents.

In the Republic of Belarus, the following types of visas are provided:

B – transit visa;

C — short-term visa, valid for up to 90 days;

D — long-term visa, valid for up to 1 year with the right to stay up to 90 days, unless otherwise stipulated by the international treaties of the Republic of Belarus.

Entry visas may be single-entry, double-entry and multiple-entry.

Single entry visa entitles to a single entry, stay and departure from the Republic of Belarus for the period specified in the visa and within a specified number of days of stay, but not more than 90 days.

Double entry visa entitles to a double entry, stay and departure from the Republic of Belarus for the period specified in the visa and within a specified number of days of stay, but not more than 90 days.

A multiple entry visa entitles to the numerous (more than 2 times) entries, stays and departures from the Republic of Belarus for the period specified in the visa and within a specified number of days of stay, but not more than 90 days per year, unless otherwise stipulated by the international treaties of the Republic of Belarus.

A consular officer makes a decision about granting an entry visa on the basis of the documents submitted, the results of an interview within 5 working days from the date of application (as a matter of urgency — within 2 working days), which is final.

A consular officer may reduce the number of entries granted by the visa and the validity of the visa.

A consular officer is not obliged to indicate the reasons for visa denial.

In the event of visa denial the consular fee is not reimbursed.

To extend the term of stay of a foreign citizen on the territory of the Republic of Belarus the Citizenship and Migration Department at the place of registration of a foreign citizen should be contacted to obtain:

— an exit visa;

— a sojourn permit and, if necessary, an exit-entry visa in addition to it.
